

Natural Communities In the Granite State

Co-sponsored by the Candia Conservation Commission and

Join us on Tuesday, November 15, at 7pm in the Candia Town Office Conference room for a presentation by State Botanist Bill Nichols.

Learn what natural communities are, how they're distinguished from one another, and why they are critically important to informing conservation efforts. Some of the best examples of natural communities and the rare species they support will be highlighted.

Copies of the book
The Nature of New Hampshire: Natural Communities of the Granite State published by the UNH Cooperative Extension will be available for $29.95

We hope you can join us for this informative presentation.

Refreshments will be provided.
